Request for Immediate Investment Funding

VeriOne — Seeking an Investor or Founding Financial Partner

I am seeking an investor or founding financial partner for VeriOne, a proposed worldwide Internet infrastructure designed to establish verified human ownership and accountability for online accounts, websites, and publications. VeriOne would use annual verification videos, iris authentication, and proprietary sensors to prevent fraudulent account ownership, impersonation, and other forms of Internet abuse while protecting legitimate freedom of expression. Make sure you see my three demonstrations on the home page.

VeriOne is currently a founder-developed project and has not yet been established as a separate legal entity. I am seeking an investor willing to provide an initial financial advance directly to me as its founder, with an agreed portion available for immediate personal living expenses and continued development of VeriOne. Under a mutually agreed written arrangement, the advance could later be credited toward the investor's purchase of shares or other ownership interests once VeriOne is formally established.

The agreement would specify the amount advanced, its permitted uses, the proposed future ownership arrangement, and the treatment of the funds if the company is not formed or the investment does not proceed. Any future equity issuance would be subject to proper company formation, definitive agreements, and applicable securities laws.

My immediate objective is to secure funding, establish the company, and begin the engineering, development, and implementation of the proposed infrastructure.

Interested investors may review the concept and demonstrations at https://verione.org/ and contact me through the website to discuss this funding arrangement.

See more on LinkedIn: Seeking an investor for VeriOne — Human Internet Verification

Sincerely,

Robert Norman
Founder, VeriOne
https://verione.org/